REPPERT ORDERS PROBE

County Bench Takes Cognizance of Evidence Submitted at Inquest Into Death of Fred Nicklow Near Scene of Liquor Selling Establishment.

With the finding of the body of a dead babe in Trump run near the old Crescent plant following the violent deaths of two men on the West Penn trolley track in the vicinity of an alleged speakeasy, steps are under way for an investigation of the liquor dispensary. While the city officials had taken no action it was said in the town that Judge J. H. Repper to whose attention the matter was referred by the coroner's jury inquest into the death of Fred Nicklow had vetoed the county's action and it also became known that a petition was in circulation among South Side residents asking that a detail of state police be sent here from Greensburg to bring back the body of the dead babe to the city for a full investigation.

The habe found yesterday by William Walker, a truck driver for the West Penn Railways company, had been murdered. That was established by an autopsy held by coroner J. H. Repper yesterday afternoon. The coroner's jury inquest into the death of the babe was held today at the residence of the mother of the babe, Mrs. Mary Walker, at 1110 West Penn avenue. The Housewives Burden
When a woman is almost distracted from overwork, her home is in disorder, crying children, and on top of all is suffering from backache, bearing down pains, or some other form of feminine ailment, then she should remember that hundreds of women in just her condition have been restored to health and regained their youthful strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and not rest until she has given it a fair trial.
Proof that it Restored the Health of These Two Women
"Some time ago I got so bad with female trouble that I thought I would have to be operated on. I had a bad displacement. My head ached, my back ached, and I was so nervous I could not hold a glass of water. Many times I would have to stop my work and sit down. I would fall on the floor in a faint. I consulted several doctors and they all told me the same thing: I kept high to keep from having the operation. I had read so many times of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped my system so I began taking it. I have never felt better than I have since then and I can now do all my work. The Vegetable Compound is certainly one of the best medicines I have ever taken."

HIS PAY CHECK SHOWS INCREASE

For First Time in Years Popular Railroad Man is Able to Draw Full Pay.

"I have just finished my fourth bottle of Tanlac and have gained thirteen pounds," was the remarkable statement made by Floyd W. Farren, a car repairer living at 816 31st street Huntington, West Virginia, in a conversation with the Tanlac representative, a few days ago.

Mr. Farren is a member of Local Union No. 65, Brotherhood of Railroad Carmen of America, and is not only popular in railroad circles but is highly respected by all who know him. "My last month's pay check," he explained Mr. Farren, "was the first one I have drawn in more than a year that shows full time. I began suffering with stomach trouble fifteen years ago and had gotten to the place where I could hardly get around at all. I just had that 'all in' down-and-out feeling all the time and, in fact, my case had been pronounced hopeless."

"I could only manage to work about half the time. My pay check for the first year show a deduction of sixteen or seventeen days a month for time I lost on account of not being able to work. I was not only suffering physically but was worried almost out of my wits, for it looked like I would soon get to where I could no longer earn a living for my family."

"But by the help of Tanlac I now enjoy first class health and am able to put in full time, never missing a minute from my work. I am now able to eat just anything I want, even cabbage and other things considered the hardest to digest seem to agree with me perfectly. I never have the least sign of indigestion, no matter what I eat, and my stomach simply feels like a new one. All the praise, thanks and gratitude for my present good health belongs to Tanlac. I am glad to make this statement for what it may be worth to others who are trying to find relief. For Tanlac is the only medicine I have found in fifteen years that does what they say it will."

Tanlac is sold by all leading druggists.—Adv.

Over fifty years ago a young physician practiced widely in a rural district and became famous for his uniform success in the curing of disease. This was Dr. Pierce, who afterwards established himself in Buffalo, N. Y., and placed one of his prescriptions, which he called "Golden Medical Discovery," in the drug stores of the United States so that the public could easily obtain this very remarkable tonic, corrective and blood-maker. Dr. Pierce manufactured this "Discovery" from roots and barks—a corrective remedy, the ingredients of which nature had put in the fields and forests, for keeping us healthy. Few folks or families now living have not at sometime or other used this "Golden Medical Discovery" for the stomach, liver and heart. Over twenty-four million bottles of this tonic and blood remedy have been sold in this country.

A DUOFOLD Is Your Spare Bedroom

Scientific housekeeping has practically eliminated the spare bedroom. In most well appointed homes the Duofold has replaced the spare bedroom. In fact housing conditions of recent years have made the Duofold a necessity. The spare bedroom, used once in so often, has been found to be a needless expense. In its place is the Davenport of the living room suite—a convenient piece of furniture for every day in the year and a bed when company comes.

Pullman Davenports and Duofolds in a wide assortment at most reasonable prices

For Davenports or Duofolds it is at Aaron's, as for everything else for the home, that you can find the most varied assortment and at prices made possible only by our immense four store buying power. Pullman davenports, found exclusively here, are made in the very latest designs—so that they do not show from outward appearance that they contain a bed. They may be had in both tapestry and leather covering and are strongly constructed and beautifully finished.

Come in and see these bed davenports. We are always glad to show you around.

There Can Be But One "BEST," and When it Comes to Trading Stamps, Here it is.

If you would but ask anyone of millions of housewives who receive 2¢ Green Stamps as a discount, just what they think of them as real money savers, you'd get but one answer, and that is, "The Best of All."

It is quite true that they are the oldest in existence. And glad they are. The U. S. currency system is rather old, but it serves just as well today as when first introduced.

Likewise, the 2¢ Green Stamp Co-operative Discount Service has been serving mighty well and generously for close to a quarter of a century, and if they're seeking our candid opinion regarding its true worth, we'll go on record in here and say, "There can be but one 'BEST.' And when it comes to a trading Stamp, 2¢ is it."

The Motor That Passes Them By

It is a fact that the continued use of Atlantic eliminates those minor yet expensive repairs that are due to poor gasoline. And because you get extra miles from every gallon, Atlantic is doubly economical.

Atlantic is scientifically proportioned. The highly volatile elements, so necessary for quick combustion and pick-up, are skillfully combined with the less volatile but powerful components of gasoline. Every drop burns.

Atlantic gives extra power to meet any hill or rough spot easily. It increases speed on the straight-away. It is all power. None is left to trickle past piston rings and dilute your oil.

You will appreciate the Atlantic range. For different altitudes and weather changes do not affect it. Once your carburetor is properly adjusted, it is set for the season.

By the constant use of Atlantic, you can reduce carbon formation to a minimum. All Atlantic Gasoline is refined to a definite high standard. You can always depend on its quality. The Red Pump tells you the place to fill the tank with

THE PARAMOUNT.

"MOON MADNESS"—Featuring Edith Storey, supported by a notable cast, is today's feature attraction. Miss Storey plays a dual role. She appears first as the excitement-loving wife and mother whose love for the gaiety of city-life leads her into a situation which causes her tragic death, and later as the daughter of this woman who as a baby is adopted by wealthy Arabs and grows to womanhood in the African wilds ignorant of her race and parentage.

When she meets two artists from the latin quarter of Paris the same longings which destroyed her mother are awakened and the little Bedouin girl goes to Paris only to meet disillusionment. She finds, however, her true love, but in the finding she meets with adventures which go to make up in Paris the famous Bohemian quarter of Paris which makes the story move with celebrity and suspense to a sweeping and breath-taking climax.

THE SOISSON.

"STRONGEST"—A powerful drama, featuring an all star cast, is being presented today. The picture contains a good supply of stirring action and is a first class production. It is sure to please all patrons of this popular theatre. Friday and Saturday, "The Wonder Man," with George Carpentier, world-war hero, idol of France and heavyweight champion of Europe, in the leading role will be shown. The picture is an American society drama of heart interest, intrigue and action.

THE ARCADE.

The management of the Arcade theatre is offering a bill of Keith vaudeville this week that packs the popular playhouse to the doors both afternoon and evening. The headline feature is "My Bonita Girl" and typical of a Keith attraction. It is a novelty musical show with a number of late song hits and a host of prettily gowned girls. The show is one of the best that has been seen on the Arcade stage for a long time and is full of life and amusing situations all the way through. Fifteen people were carried by the show and it was evident that no small expense had been spared on costumes or securing the best talent. A violin number and a soft shoe came were especially pleasing.

Other numbers on the bill were Haley and Trevor, billed as comedians, singing and talking artists. Better singing and talking artists have been seen on Connelville stages but their skit was well received by the audience.

Kennedy and Kramer, hard shoe artists, took the house by storm at both performances last evening and gave Connelville theatre-goers a real treat in hard shoe dancing. They could not only dance and sing but rendered a bono and singing and dancing act that called them back for several encores.

The Arcade orchestra furnished some snappy, lively music the like of which surprised many new visitors at the play house. The orchestra is un-

Nothing Stops the Cletrac

The Cletrac keeps going steadily over marshy land, loose sandy soil or heavy clay. It works on the hillsides, in and out of gullies and hauls heavy loads up steep grades that stop horses and other power units.

There's work for the sturdy Cletrac right through the year. It ditches and terraces—improves your drainage system and prevents washing during the rainy season.

It keeps busy filling in the marshes and low bottoms or old washouts and gullies. It pulls stumps, hauls big boulders, clears up your unprofitable land and puts more acres under cultivation.

The Cletrac is economical and easy to run. Come in and look this tractor over. See for yourself its sturdy construction. Let us show you what it will do for you on your farm.

The Paragon Motor Has Arrived

In spite of extreme difficulties in obtaining materials and parts, in spite of the pattern-makers' strike, which has tied up all pattern shops in the central west since July 15th, the Paragon motor has been completely designed, patterns finished, castings made and machined, and finally assembled in the short period of less than eight months. The bodies are now in the paint shop, cushions, upholstery and fenders are being made to fit, and the first completed Paragon car will appear in Connellsville very shortly.

Truly a remarkable achievement, as this is a job usually requiring from two to three years. Those who have visited the shops in Cleveland where the Paragon model cars are now being constructed, have appreciated the immense amount of detail required in giving birth to a new high-grade car, and we wish to thank those who are interested in Paragon progress for their patience. The motor now on display speaks for itself.

Paragon design is fully two years in advance of present-day construction, following airplane motor design in many ways. The motor weighs 522 pounds—less than 9 pounds per horsepower. Refinement of detail is evident throughout. Great care has been exercised in selection of just the proper materials, metals or alloy for each individual part. A new aluminum alloy having a tensile strength of 60,000 pounds per square inch has been used extensively. The accessibility of all parts will be a revelation to the "motor-wise."

R. KARASINSKI,
Assistant Chief Engineer.

P. P. HACKENTHAL,
Chief Engineer and Designer.

The Paragon motor combines the features of reliability and the fuel economy of four-cylinder construction, a highly perfected and positively oiled over-head valve mechanism, a pre-heating carburetor system for economy with low grade fuel, automatic thermostatically-controlled cooling system, dual ignition, and exceptional light-weight with rigid construction. The aluminum crank case and cylinder block are in one casting. The cast iron cylinder sleeves are 5-32 in. thick, machined all over, pressed into the block, sealed by means of special gaskets, and held in place by the cast iron cylinder head. The bore is 3 3/4 in., stroke 5 1/8 in., giving a displacement of 226 cubic inches, and S. A. E. rating of 22 1/2 H. P. The motor actually develops 60 H. P. A sturdy crank shaft is mounted on three large bronze-backed babbit-lined bearings 2 1/2 in. in diameter.

On the right side of the motor is mounted the necessary drive shaft, operating the fan pulley, water pump and magneto generator. On the left side the carburetor is mounted between the double exhaust pipes. The intake manifold is so heated by exhaust gases that the gasoline mixture is pre-heated into a dry gas before entering the cylinders. This facilitates starting and develops full power from low grade fuel.

The overhead valve action is mounted on the cylinder head and enclosed by a polished aluminum cover plate for cleanliness and silence. The valve rocker arm shaft and rocker arms are drilled hollow, feeding oil under pressure to all valve mechanism. Even the valve stems wear Bakelite composition caps for silence.

Lubrication is by gear pump mounted on rear end of hollow crankshaft. Oil is pumped thru the crankshaft to the main bearings, thence thru channels drilled in the crank case to the main bearings, thence thru channels drilled in the crank shaft to a thin reservoir drilled in the crank pin, thence feeds into the connecting rod bearings. As the oil is forced out of connecting rod bearings, it is thrown into the cylinder walls and into a recess on upper end of connecting rods for the piston pin bearing. Another oil line feeds a shower of oil over the final gear. Oil then drains back into the bottom of the case where it is strained and cooled.

The pistons and connecting rods are special aluminum alloy. Each assembly is carefully balanced and weighs only 4 pounds complete. The gas passages in the cylinder head are completely water-jacketed and so designed that each cylinder is equidistant from the exhaust. The valve guides and spark plug chambers are completely surrounded by water jackets. The spark plugs are so placed as to be cooled and washed by the incoming charge of gas. In order to obtain large valve areas, the Paragon motor has one large exhaust valve and two slightly smaller inlet valves on each cylinder.

The Paragon engineers have achieved a masterpiece of engineering in developing a motor so clean-cut in design and so accessible, so efficient, and so constructed as to guarantee long life and low up-keep.

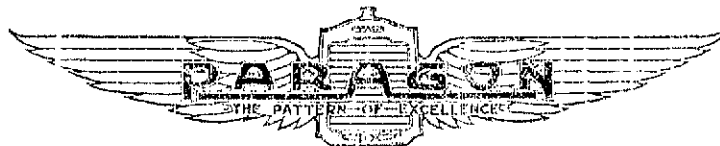

Patterns, dies, tools and fixtures are now being made to start manufacturing the complete Paragon car. Work will be started at an early date on a modern completely equipped factory building where Paragon Cars will be built.

The first judgment of the men back of Paragon as to the large and unusual profits to be made by this Company is now thoroughly borne out. The subscription books of the Company are open, and only a very limited amount of stock is still obtainable at the par value of $10.00 per share, subject to prior sale and advance in price without notice.

Webster —Man's Man

By PETER B. KYNE

Author of
"Cappy Ricks," "The Valley of the Giants," etc.

Webster saw a bayonet lunging toward him. He tried his best and caught the point of his bayonet with his last cartridge. He was man behind the bayonet.

latter a next rank man thrust straight and true under the American's left arm while a third man jabbed at his stomach and got the bayonet home in his hip. These two thrusts delivered almost simultaneously by their impact caused their victim to stagger against the wall against which he had been leaning. He fell forward on his face before his assailants could draw back for a finishing thrust. In case the jingo needed it which they doubted Don Juan Cafetero had drained them both.

Standing above the man he loved with the latter's body he was his opponent's type. Don Juan Cafetero stood for he had no more to say but terrible eyes gleaming hatred and war-madness his lips drawn back from his teeth his hands rising and falling as they closed in around him. For a few seconds he was visible swinging his rifle like a flail menacingly untroubled—and then a bayonet slipped in under his guard it was the end.

With a final great effort that used up the last strength in his drink-corroded muscles he hurled his rifle into the midst of his four remaining enemies before he swayed and toppled full length on top of Webster shielding with his poor body the man who had "killed" him the dying number of minutes in the week that drink and the devil had cast up on the Caribbean coast.

For Don Juan Cafetero it had been a long joyous thirty day but at last the day was done. And in order to make certain a soldier's label he once more through the vitals before he fled with the other survivors.

For half an hour after Webster left her to nurse the great hearted Mother Jenks in the rough care of the wound ad Dolores absorbed in her work of mercy gave all her thought to the grim task before her. The cries followed by the sudden savage outbreak of fire when the guards made their dash from the palace brought Webster and Don Juan to mind instantly. In a quick access of terror and apprehension she clung trembling to the old Mother Jenks.

"Somebody's broken in or broken out," the veteran decided calmly. "Come to the corner door, an eye a look."

She half dragged Dolores to the corner, from which they had in unobstructed view down the cross street to the intersection three blocks distant with the Calle San Rosario conspicuously they saw the dozen or more survivors of that fatal dash from the port gate of the palace dash for a second across that line of vision. Mother Jenks cried out dismally like a dispirited old raven she was trying to cheer.

The rats are really the scum of the ship, she wheeled. Come and see them take the devil as they are called. Later she took Dolores gently from Dolores' clinging grasp and ran down the street. In a few minutes she was at the corner where she had seen the men, reasoning that her duty lay in punishing Mother Jenks and preventing her from rushing headlong into the midst of the soldiers.

Patience the fleeing guards had hurried around a corner into a cross street shortly after Dolores and Mother Jenks had seen their soldier pass for the first time the Calle San Roario had been entirely by the line they reached it. They stood a moment at the corner gazing up the street at the double man and beast which the wounded soldier out of the shadows to the sidewalk.

Mother Jenks nodded approvingly as she saw that the man was pouring into the palace with his arms about each other the two women watched and waited and presently the national flag, the police came fluttering down from its staff to be raised again with the red banner of revolution flitting above it the insignia of a nation reborn.

"My lamb," Mother Jenks said softly to Dolores, the war is over. What the matter with you? In the south gate an action on the police steps for the provision president to make his grand entrance? I was certain a minute's delay will have a bloody guard or both gates and in us to we are an awful war.

But Mr. Webster will come back in that big street looking for me. I'm sitting back and wait there for him.

"What's that?" Mother Jenks overheard the girl's protest. "I'll go into the palace with the crowd for a look-see. I'll meet 'em there and give 'em the trouble of a north for us. Con. And she half dragged the shivering girl toward the gate, a big distinction which only a few minutes before Webster and Don Juan Cafetero had made for her last fatal stand.

"Don't look at his lighters bones," Mother Jenks warned Dolores when in approaching the gate she caught sight of the bodies strewn in front of it. My word. Regular Billy mess—no all right. I can't be sure. I must have been some with a meat on his head as my sainted father used to say. I thought so. There's a red headed 'n't. Gave me a pink. An' a done all that—Gor strike me pink. It's Don Juan Cafetero.

Mother Jenks stepped over the gory corpses, flung around Don Juan and knelt beside him. Don Juan she cried. You badly hurt? In his sister's gone and all that.

She ran her strong old arms under his dripping body. He had him and laid his head on her knee while with her free hand she drew a small flask of brandy from her dress pocket.

Don Juan opened his butterfly eyes and gazed up at her with slow, dawning wonder. Then closed they again. Dolores, she said and called Mother Jenks passed the flask to his blue lips as the brandy bit his tongue he rolled his head in a feeble protest and weakly set his teeth against the lip of the flask. Wondering Mother Jenks withdrew it—and then Don Juan spoke.

Have you a mother's permission? I give him a moral as he has—no right to drink. I'll be a good girl. He was—God—love—me—how

His jaw dropped loose. His head rolled sideways. But one his spirit fled. Don Juan Cafetero had just lifted the faith of his master. He had kept his word of honor. He had made good on his bid to die for Don Juan. Webster and Dolores the chance.

Mother Jenks held his body a little while gazing in the face no longer rubleund. Then gently she eased it to the ground and for the first time was aware that Dolores knelt in the dirt opposite to her striving to lift the body upon which Don Juan had been lying.

The strength of Dolores was an equal to the task. Mother Jenks hardened courageously on as he waited. Error at his inglorious finish rose and stepped around to her side to help her. She could see this other was a white man too coolly she stooped and wiped his gory face with the hem of her apron. And then she recognized him.

RETURN OF SOLDIER DEAD PROGRESSING SOMEWHAT SLOWLY

patently waiting for their request to be granted.

To those who may not see the situation of these far away cemeteries, not feel that their dead would be forsaken if left in foreign soil and there fore are not numbered among the 150,000 sorrowing parents who are about bringing home our soldiers dead, let me say to any one who may be in that minority and read this report that their wish and desire is being respected with equal love and care by our government and home bodies which remain to be the disturbed not their graves interred with in any way by the return of the others.

According to information secured from the Graves Registration office in Paris, President Pouch learned that the territory of France in which American soldiers are buried has been divided into six sections and the following are the names of the sections: Section 1, part of the 2313 bodies, all of which have been transferred. Section 2, part of the 2313 bodies, 879 bodies buried in the Symphonie Noyes, Bourges, Blois, and Nantes cemeteries. Section 3, part of the 2313 bodies, 1427 bodies buried in Bourges and Bourges cemeteries. Section 4, part of the 2313 bodies, 1427 bodies buried in Bourges and Bourges cemeteries. Section 5, part of the 2313 bodies, 1427 bodies buried in Bourges and Bourges cemeteries. Section 6, part of the 2313 bodies, 1427 bodies buried in Bourges and Bourges cemeteries.

To July 1 there had been 1286 disinterments, of which 1170 were in France and 116 in England. Since January 1, 1919, new graves have been noted all of which except two per cent have been identified.

At the present time, says President Pouch, there are only three sections at work outside the war zone area and when all three sections are working full force about 90 exhumations per day are made and the Graves Registration Service is planning to work all six sections after September 15.

If the work is carried on in the war zone after September 15, with double the number of sections working and no greater progress is made, it has been accomplished since March 29, 1920, it may require about two years to complete that work in France.

But if the maximum number of fully exhumations now being made can be continued in all six sections, it will require only one or two years to complete that work in France.

On the other hand, assuming that the work can be carried on the entire time and not delayed by winter weather and assuming that delays occur in the supply of caskets and of transportation, but from personal observation of the conditions which the government has to contend with in supplying its own labor, material and transportation for long distance it is doubtful in my mind if the work can be entirely completed until the fall of 1921.

According to present rate of shipment of caskets, about 5000 per month it will take 12 months to deliver 60,000 caskets and assuming that there may be a supply on hand of five or six thousand it would further indicate the work cannot be completed before September 15, 1921, under most favorable conditions.

This delay however is a combination of circumstances, of which no one has absolute control, though I believe we should be an organization continue our efforts of following up the activities of the government especially when administration changes, but do not feel that we should interfere unduly the officials who have this work in charge. There are many agencies, including customs and regulations of the French government and of people which go a long way in making the difficulties of our officials. In fact it is lack of French cooperation in many ways (intention or unavoidable) which is responsible for the slowness of the government's work.

Not only to satisfy my desire to see individuals and personally but also to test out the government's plan and ascertain if any of the rumors could possibly be correct in reference to individuals having privately and personally removed the dead from the many ways and through various means to obtain permission to bury home the remains of my son at my own expense but at every turn there were obstacles that could not be overcome which included both French and American rules and regulations.

LEGION SEEKS INFORMATION ABOUT MISSING SOLDIERS

Wynn, former private in Company I, 11th Infantry. He died somewhere in France more than two years ago but according to his family neither the Graves Registration office nor the Red Cross can tell how he died or where he is buried. His wife is named Mrs. Wynn and she is now living in Fox Run, Pa. She is a widow and has three children. She is now 65 years old and is in poor health. She is now living in Fox Run, Pa.
